Breakthrough Innovation for the SDGs

Since 2010 Gualter Crisóstomo is the Organizational Sustainability Director of CEIIA – Centre of Engineering and Product Development, Portugal. He is also professor at the Higher Institute of Advanced Technologies, Lisbon (ISTEC, Portugal), with responsibility for courses in Business Management and Communication Theory.

Gualter has a degree in the International Relations, Economical and Political Fields and holds a post-graduate degree in Political Marketing and Communication, and Administration and Public Policy. His professional and academic activity has developed around the promotion of business ethics and integrity. He has participated (individually and institutionally) in several national and international initiatives in this field. He was also the first Portuguese civilian to attend NATO Building Integrity Course.

Since 2012, following the internationalization of CEIIA to the Brazilian market, he has been responsible for institutional and commercial partnerships. He also coordinates the development of new and innovative approaches to sustainability mobility for the Brazilian market.

Currently, Gualter Crisóstomo is one of the Portuguese leading advocates of Collectives Actions to promote the UN SDGs in the organizational context. He is also the author of several scientific articles and papers on topics related to innovation, organizational sustainability, competitiveness and ethics and integrity.
